GIVE YOUR PATIENTS
SUPERIOR REJUVENATION
WITHOUT THE DOWNTIME

ADD ANOTHER ARM TO YOUR PRACTICE WITH ONE OF THE MOST SOUGHT-AFTER FACIAL REJUVENATION TREATMENTS.

Everyone wants better skin and great results without any downtime. Impossible? Not with the HydraFacial by High Tech Laser.

Benefiting both patients and cosmetic practices, HydraFacial is easily integrated into any clinic and can be used as a standalone or adjunct to cosmetic procedures.

A sought-after treatment all-year round, it yields good return on investment, and complements skin, beauty and cosmetic surgical and non-surgical treatments.

Along with its effectiveness in cleansing, nourishing and brightening the skin, HydraFacial sets itself apart from other skin-resurfacing treatments in the way it hydrates and improves the appearance of the skin without any irritation, downtime or discomfort.

Performed by skin therapists, dermal clinicians, nurses and doctors, HydraFacial produces beautiful, clean, hydrated, radiant skin results that are visible straight after treatment.

Dr Ingrid Tall from Queensland has been using the HydraFacial in her clinic for over a year and hasn't looked back.

"Our old microdermabrasion machine broke down and we were trying new ones and thought we should try the HydraFacial. My nurse and I loved the results so much we bought a HydraFacial and scrapped the idea of replacing the microdermabrasion machine," says Dr Tall.

"It is so much more than the simple 'buff and polish' of a microdermabrasion machine; it also has a suction cleanse, light chemical peel and infusion of antioxidants. The HydraFacial has become an integral part of the practice."

THE 5-STEP PROTOCOL

The treatment protocol for HydraFacial consists of five steps: three cleansing and two nourishing. Dead skin cells are removed with cleansing and exfoliation, followed by a glycolic and salicylic acid peel to dislodge grime from the pores. A vortex suction extraction system is applied to fully decongest the skin.

The nourishing element consists of an infusion of highly active hydrating serums consisting of vortex-fused antioxidants and hyaluronic acid applied to the skin. This is followed by application of the HydraFacial Daily Essentials skincare to help retain moisture and protect and smooth the surface of the skin.

"It can also be easily used in conjunction with other treatments, both before and after to really prime and condition the skin. We recommend it one week after Fractora fractional resurfacing to give the contrast of smooth skin after a week of 'rough' skin," says Dr Tall.

REJUVENATION FOR EVERY SKIN TYPE

HydraFacial is ideal for an extensive range of patients, from regular skin and beauty clients to cosmetic surgery patients, from acne sufferers to clients just desiring a complexion refresher prior to a major event.

HydraFacial differs from other skin resurfacing treatments by hydrating and ameliorating the skin surface of all skin types and conditions without irritation, discomfort or downtime.

"The procedure is gentle enough to perform on all skin types. We tend to promote it to patients who are a little more hesitant about skin treatments. We then perhaps move on to a Fractora fractional resurfacing treatment when they want to seriously turn back the hands of time," explains Dr Tall.

A single HydraFacial treatment delivers a reduction in the visible effects of sun damage, blemishes and fine lines, as well as showing an improvement in overall skin texture with regular treatments. It is also an effective post-surgical treatment to aid recovery and enhance the results after facelifts, blepharoplasty, rhinoplasty and other facial cosmetic surgery.

"Patients are looking for immediate noticeable results," says Dr Tall. "Gone are the days of fluffy relaxing facials. People want to look fresher and better, not just have a lovely experience. You can really see and feel the difference in your skin with the HydraFacial."

their skin both immediately and in the days following the treatment. It is usually recommended that patients have one treatment a month; clients will often sign up for a package of treatments to maintain their results.

Dr Tall says her patients are amazed to see the dead skin cells and dirt that has been removed from their skin. "Clients love to 'see' their skin waste products in the solution. It's kind of 'yucky but nice', because we generally like to think our skin is cleaner than it actually is."

For patients, HydraFacial is a pain-free, safe, zero-downtime treatment for any skin type that gives visible improvements in skin quality and texture. For clinics, the treatment offers good return on investment, as it is not only widely applicable but also sought after all-year round.

"HydraFacial is a gentle, hydrating skin-refining that produces real results. I would absolutely recommend it to anyone who is looking to expand their clinic's offering," Dr Tall concludes. AMP
